Once in the Body Bentonite

Clay:

- Cleanses the liver & colon
- Balances the digestive tract
- Strengthens immunity
- Acts as a catalyst for the transformation of food into usable energy
- Alkalizes the entire body

Used To Reduce Spider Veins

Bentonite clay has been used to treat spider veins and varicose veins. By applying clay masques on the areas locally, then internally taking the clay daily.

Works as a natural hair detox & conditioner soothes scalp inflammation and restores bounce and curl to hair.

Bentonite clay has a strong negative ionic charge and this is the reason the clay works to detoxify the body. The negative charge allows the clay to attract only substances that have a positive charge, such as toxins, harmful bacteria, pesticides, heavy metals, and pathogens.

The first recorded use of medicinal clay occurred in 2500 B.C. in Mesopotamia.

Experts believe montmorillonite is the mineral that gives bentonite its beneficial qualities. But it also contains magnesium and 67 other trace minerals.
